News Letter of JAC

EDITOR'S DESK

Education is quintessentially the core of humanity and the foundation of an enlightened society. Owing to the unpredictable scenario brought in by the pandemic and consequent lockdowns, education has been redesigned to a great extent and students are alternatively exposed to online and offline classes. JAC has understood the importance of blended learning and utilised this situation most efficiently in the past three months. Teaching and evaluation proceeded in an uninterrupted manner through a combination of offline classrooms, online repositories and other e-learning methods. Apart from this, various programmes of academic and holistic importance were conducted both through offline and virtual modes to benefit the students. Our students and professors took part in numerous webinars, online conferences, courses and competitions. Research activities were given much importance. This issue of JACNEWS is a proud record of all this and more. Happy reading!
