Workshop on Khadi and Village Industries Programme

Gandhi's philosophy of Khadi and Village Industries was deeply intertwined with his principles of non-violence, self-sufficiency, and social justice. Khadi is hand-spun and handwoven cloth made from natural fibres, primarily cotton. Mahatma Gandhi promoted Khadi as a symbol of self-reliance and economic empowerment. Khadi production was labour-intensive and could involve women and the economically disadvantaged. He believed that promoting Khadi production would provide employment to rural communities, and also emphasized the development of village industries. He believed that by revitalizing traditional, small-scale, and cottage industries, rural communities could become self-reliant. Even after India gained independence, the promotion of Khadi and rural industries continued as a means of economic development and empowerment. By the direction of Khadi and Village Industries Commission, Madurai, PG & Research Centre of History, in collaboration with Certificate course on Gandhian Thought organised a Workshop on Gandhi's Khadi and Village Industries Awareness Programme on 20-10-2023.

Mr.R.Natarajan, Education Officer cum Curator, Gandhi Museum, Madurai delivered a lecture on Gandhi and Khadi. He emphasised that, adhering to Gandhian principles can lead us toward genuine freedom. He stressed the significance of values such as non-violence, simplicity, loyalty, truthfulness, urging students to integrate these principles into their lives. Nonetheless, he acknowledged that consistently practicing these values in one's life can be quite challenging in accordance with the day today life. According to the words of Gandhiji Truth is God. Practicing truthfulness in mind and action bring forth real existence of human values. He kindled the spirit of the students to adhere the same value very particularly at the time of Examination.

During the workshop, Cake preparation was conducted by Mr.D.Jack Daniel, Natural Glowing Cosmetic powder, Spicy powder and Dhoop insence production were carried out by Dr.P.Floras Mary, Head &Associate Professor of History, Swadeshi Nutritious Snacks: Groundnut laddu preparation was done by Dr.S.Sahayamary, Assistant Professor of History, Pearl millet laddu and Groundnut candy preparation were demonstrated by Dr.A.D.Padmasree, Assistant Professor of History. Coconut candy preparation was undertaken by, Dr.S.Kasthuri, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Idli podi preparation was demonstrated by Dr.L.R.Charlet Sharmili, Assistant Professor of History. Mat making from waste cloth was taught by Dr.T.Girija Bai, Assistant Professor of Economics. 205 Students and 15 staff members were benefitted out of this programme.

Pongal Celebration

The PG and Research Centre of History celebrated Pongal on January 13, 2024. It was an exciting and culturally enriching event that brought together members of our community to commemorate the auspicious harvest festival. The event aimed to promote unity, cultural exchange, and the spirit of gratitude for the bountiful harvest. The celebrations commenced with the conventional cooking of Pongal, where students gathered to prepare the special dish in a traditional way. This activity fostered a sense of solidarity and allowed everyone to share the joyous cooking process. Adding to the celebration was a vibrant and sparkling ambiance, with the surroundings of the Department adorned with lively decorations, that reflected the spirit of Pongal. The chosen theme celebrated the agricultural roots of the festival, with displays of sugarcane, colourful rangoli, and traditional art adding to the festive ambiance. Both staff and students donned traditional attire that exhibited the rich cultural diversity. The event not only provided a platform for joyous festivities but also served as an opportunity to educate and connect individuals with unity, sharing and the roots of this traditional harvest festival.
